

Written by Dennis Behreandt on March 13, 2024

House to Vote Today on Sale of TikTok

The House of Representatives is set to vote today on the bill to force ByteDance to sell TikTok over its alleged affiliations with China's Communist Party. As summarized by ZeroHedge, "The bill was introduced on March 5 by 19 members of the House Select Committee on the CCP — including Chair Mike Gallagher (R-Wis.) and ranking member Raja Krishnamoorthi (D-Ill.)."

While this sounds good, former President Donald Trump has indicated opposition to the measure. In widely reported comments, Trump warned that without competition from TikTok, "you can make Facebook bigger and I consider Facebook to be an enemy of the people."

More substantive and concerning criticism has come from Representative Thomas Massie (R-Ky.). The Kentucky Congressman noted that the measure contained an "Exclusion" that restricts the measure's provisions from being applied to any "entity that operates a website, desktop application, mobile application, or augmented or immersive technology application whose primary purpose is to allow users to post product reviews, business reviews or travel information and reviews."

If you think this isn't a Trojan horse and will only apply to TikTok and foreign-adversary social media companies, then contemplate why someone thought it was important to get a very specific exclusion for their internet based business written into the bill:

pic.twitter.com/LnHsmEggtt9

— Thomas Massie (@RepThomasMassie) March 12, 2024

This doesn't seem to cover other types of websites, and Thomas Massie pointed this out in another post on X.

"The so-called TikTok ban is a trojan horse," Massie said. "The President will be given the power to ban WEB SITES, not jut Apps. The person breaking the new law is deemed to be the U.S. (or offshore) INTERNET HOSTING SERVICE or App Store, not the 'foreign adversary.'"

The so-called TikTok ban is a trojan horse.

The President will be given the power to ban WEB SITES, not just Apps.

The person breaking the new law is deemed to be the U.S. (or offshore) INTERNET HOSTING SERVICE or App Store, not the "foreign adversary."<https://t.co/iKtAQFGeQH>
pic.twitter.com/P26hEbzQrf

Written by Dennis Behreandt on March 13, 2024

— Thomas Massie (@RepThomasMassie) March 12, 2024

This seems ripe for abuse, which should not come as a surprise, considering how active federal authorities have been under the Biden administration in the effort to restrict individual rights and to retaliate against perceived opponents of the administration. In particular, this measure would seem to present a direct threat to the rights guaranteed by the First Amendment, which, as a reminder to those in government who may not be familiar with it, reads as follows:

“Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

Subscribe to the New American

Get exclusive digital access to the most informative, non-partisan truthful news source for patriotic Americans!

Discover a refreshing blend of time-honored values, principles and insightful perspectives within the pages of "The New American" magazine. Delve into a world where tradition is the foundation, and exploration knows no bounds.

From politics and finance to foreign affairs, environment, culture, and technology, we bring you an unparalleled array of topics that matter most.

Subscribe

What's Included?

- 24 Issues Per Year
- Optional Print Edition
- Digital Edition Access
- Exclusive Subscriber Content
- Audio provided for all articles
- Unlimited access to past issues
- Coming Soon! Ad FREE
- 60-Day money back guarantee!
- Cancel anytime.