Electronic Device Attack Continues in Lebanon

The attack targeting individuals using sabotaged electronic devices in Lebanon continued yesterday, with 20 people killed and more than 450 people injured. The second wave yesterday followed the initial attack on Tuesday that killed 12 people, including two children, and injured around 3,000 people.

Israeli officials have not commented on the attacks, with Reuters reporting security sources have said Israel's Institute for Intelligence and Special Operations, commonly known as Mossad, is responsible for the attack.

Device Manufacturer Responds

Gold Apollo, a Taiwan-based manufacturer, responded to reporters questioning the AR924 pagers used in the attack. Founder and president of Gold Apollo, Hsu Ching-kuang, stated they did not manufacture the sabotaged AR924 devices, stating:

The product was not ours. It was only that it had our brand on it.... We may not be a large company but we are a responsible one.... This is very embarrassing.

In a press announcement, Gold Apollo said a Hungarian manufacturer licensed the brand, and stated they were responsible for the manufacturing of the products that were sabotaged:

GOLD APOLLO CO., LTD. Statement

Gold Apollo Co., Ltd. has established a long-term partnership with BAC CONSULTING KFT. (SZONYI UT 33/A., 1142 BUDAPEST, HU, hereinafter referred to as "BAC"). According to the cooperation agreement, we authorize BAC to use our brand trademark for product sales in designated regions, but the design and manufacturing of the products are solely the responsibility of BAC.

Regarding the AR-924 pager model mentioned in the recent media reports, we clarify that this model is produced and sold by BAC. Our company only provides the brand trademark authorization and is not involved in the design or manufacturing of this product. Gold Apollo Co., Ltd. always complies with relevant regulations and maintains transparent and compliant partnerships with our collaborators.
