

Written by Thomas R. Eddlem on August 22, 2012

Obama and Romney on Civil Liberties (Video)

Incumbent Democratic President Barack Obama campaigned in 2008 as the man who would restore civil liberties violated by the Bush administration, such as habeas corpus and the right to trial by jury. But did Obama keep his promises? And how different is Obama's actual record on civil liberties from Republican challenger Mitt Romney's positions?

In the video below — part three in a four-part series by our video partner Liberty News Network — The New American correspondent Thomas R. Eddlem takes a hard look at the record of the Obama administration and the positions staked out by the Romney campaign on civil liberties. Obama didn't keep most of his 2008 campaign promises, but Romney may still be a bit worse on civil liberties issues.

(See also our videos comparing Obama and Romney on fiscal issues, foreign policy, and social issues. For a detailed article comparing the two candidates on major issues, see Thomas R. Eddlem's "Obama v. Romney: Their Core Beliefs.")

Subscribe to the New American

Get exclusive digital access to the most informative, non-partisan truthful news source for patriotic Americans!

Discover a refreshing blend of time-honored values, principles and insightful perspectives within the pages of "The New American" magazine. Delve into a world where tradition is the foundation, and exploration knows no bounds.

From politics and finance to foreign affairs, environment, culture, and technology, we bring you an unparalleled array of topics that matter most.

Subscribe

What's Included?

- 24 Issues Per Year
- Optional Print Edition
- Digital Edition Access
- Exclusive Subscriber Content
- Audio provided for all articles
- Unlimited access to past issues
- Coming Soon! Ad FREE
- 60-Day money back guarantee!
- Cancel anytime.