Obama, Democrat's, and Healthcare Approval Rating Spiral Downward

The Obama Administration's propaganda machine is running full blast but the poll numbers continue to spiral downward for President Obama, the Democrats, and their great socialist experiment. According to the latest CBS News Poll (conducted between March 29, 2010 and April 1, 2010) President Obama hit a record low 44 percent approval rating, down from 49 percent in March, 50 percent in January, and 68 percent last April.

As to the President and the Democrat's "Healthcare Victory," America is increasingly hostile to that analysis with only 34 percent approving of the plan. That's down 7 points from late March (when the bill went through), and 15 points in July. 53 percent disapprove. 39 percent strongly disapprove.

For the first time since President Obama took office more Americans believe Republicans would do a better job handling the economy than Democrats, 48 percent to 45 percent.

Meanwhile the Democrat controlled Congress led by the Democrat party proclaimed "greatest Speaker of the House ever," maintains an embarrassingly low approval rating of 16 percent.

Combine all this bad news with the rising state rights movement which is gaining momentum by the day, and President Obama and the Democrats coming out party as full throttle Socialists and Marxists is in big trouble. We all remember that February 7, 2009 issue of Newsweek Magazine that screamed the offensive Obama-agenda-pushing-headline, "We Are All Socialists Now:" but here's the April 2010 truth: America is screaming back, "Heck No!"
