G. Edward Griffin is a legendary author, patriot, educator, and documentary producer who is known to millions worldwide for his incisive, eye-opening works that span the past seven decades. Among his books that remain classics are The Fearful Master: A Second Look at the United Nations (1964), This Is The John Birch Society (1972), World Without Cancer: The Story of Vitamin B17 (1974), The Life and Words of Robert Welch (1975), and The Creature from Jekyll Island: A Second Look at the Federal Reserve (1994).

Since 2017, Ed Griffin has been holding Red Pill Expos across the country, bringing together writers, researchers, scientists, economists, journalists, and experts in many fields to bring censored information to the American people (and a global audience) and to expose the dark, Deep State forces that have been wreaking havoc on our world, our nation, and our freedoms.

The New American's William F. Jasper and Alex Newman will once again be featured speakers at this year's Expo. This interview of Mr. Griffin by Mr. Jasper was conducted on November 15.
