Antifa Terrorists Attack ICE Building in Portland, Attempt to Trap Feds Inside

Antifa terrorists attempted to murder federal officers last night by setting fire to the office building that houses Immigration and Customs Enforcement, then attempting to lock the officers inside the building.

The terror attack ended without injury when Department of Homeland Security officers exited the building to drive the attackers away with pepper balls and rubber bullets.

Videos posted to social media shows fires, officers responding, and Antifa terrorists harassing and challenging officers to fight. After officers went back inside, the terrorists continued attacking the building.

Torrent of Abuse

"#antifa in Portland barricaded the front of the @ICEgov building," the Post Millennial's Andy Ngo tweeted. "They then set it on fire while federal officers were inside. Antifa also obscured the security cameras before launching the arson attack. #PortlandRiots."

"Officers were trapped inside when antifa set the building on fire," Ngo tweeted over footage that shows a terrorist giving the Black Lives Matter terror sign. "Every city, every town, burn the precinct to the ground," the terrorists chanted to the beat of menacing war drums.

"Antifa barricaded the front of the facility to trap people inside while the building was on fire," Ngo reported.

Other video shows Roman candles hitting the building and windows.

Antifa goons subjected DHS police to the usual verbal abuse as well, video shows.

"Drop that badge, and let's fight," a terrorist shouted in the face of an officer. "Drop that badge, and let's fight. Have your police officers back off and I'll have them back off. Let's go, bh."

"Come on, let's go. Drop that badge. Yeah, now you look away because you're a little bh," the goon continued. "Yeah, you too, drop that badge, drop that gun, see what happens. Yeah, yea you're a py-ass bh.... Let's go motherfer, drop that badge, drop that gun."

Officers sprayed pepper balls at the unhinged seditionists and were forced to shoot a few with rubber bullets. One of the terrorists threatened to kill officers if they shot him again.

“If you shoot me one more time, next time bring your rifle.... I am threatening your life.... That is a threat. A specific threat to end your life.”

After officers re-entered the building, the Antifa terror attack continued, video showed.

No Arrests

Police didn't arrest any of the terrorists, NBC affiliate KHW8 reported.

Editors and reporters at the Oregonian appeared to think nothing much happened at the “protest,” which, again, was an attempt to murder officers inside the building.

“Federal officers forced a group of protesters away from the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement building in the South Waterfront late Saturday after people in the crowd set fires that ignited the building's temporary plywood barricades,” the newspaper reported.

Video posted online showed officers in crowd-control gear emerging from the compound to scatter protesters and pull burning debris away from the building. The fire was extinguished quickly and didn't appear to spread.

The agents appeared to use crowd control munitions and physically push protesters back in the video clips posted to social media.

The city's only newspaper apparently wasn't concerned enough about the terror attack to gather widely available video for its short online account.

Attack Nothing New

The anti-ICE terror began two years ago when Antifa goons declared war on ICE employees, partly assisted by the city's leftist mayor, who refused to provide city police to protect them. The goons attacked a U.S. Marine veteran in his car as he left the facility to pick up his daughter from a summer camp.

How long the mayor will permit Antifa to rule the streets, and whether the city will wait until a federal officer actually gets murdered until it responds, is unknown.
