Harsh Sentence for Ex-NFL's Burrell

Plaxico Burrell, the super bowl champion and now ex-New York Giant has gone to jail. He will serve two years, with a minimum of 20 months, for a weapons charge.

Sounds serious enough. What did he do? Is this another case of a celebrity or sports personality out of control?

In November 2008 Burrell went to a Manhattan night club with a gun tucked into his waistband. It slipped down his leg and went off as he tried to grab it, wounding him in the thigh. Burrell had a lapsed concealed carry permit for the state of Florida, but was not a licensed carrier in New York. He was taken to a hospital by a teammate.

The Big Apple's Mayor Bloomberg slammed the hospital and the Giants team for not reporting the shooting to police — New York's finest only learned of the accident from TV reports. Bloomberg demanded that prosecutors throw the book at Burrell for bringing a loaded handgun into Bloomberg's fair city — gun laws being quite stringent there, with a minimum of 3 1/2 years in prison for conviction of a second-degree criminal possession of a weapon, which this was deemed.
