Report: California Trans Prison Policy Ends in Pregnant Inmates

From the continuing chronicles of Clown World — dateline California — a dispatch:

One or more women prisoners are pregnant thanks to a new law that forces “transgender women” — men who pretend to be women — into women’s facilities.

The latest from the radical Women’s Liberation Front hasn’t received much notice in the leftist media, although the group delivered the news two weeks ago in a tweet.

WoLF has been concerned that transgender ideologues would push men who pretend to be women into their facilities for the obvious reason: Many of the “transgender women” will be rapists and murderers.

Lunacy Reigns

The genesis of the latest madness is S.B. 132, the bright idea that ordered prison authorities to house men with women. It’s called the “The Transgender Respect, Agency, and Dignity Act,” the long way of saying “inmates will run the prisons.”

The bill would “require the department to house the person in a correctional facility designated for men or women based on the individual’s preference, except as specified,” its summary says.

Skeptics asked, “what could go wrong?”

WoLF answered:

We have now heard from seven different people inside CCWF that at least one woman, possibly more, is now pregnant after being housed with a male felon who was transferred to the women’s prison under SB132. #StopSB132

WoLF did not provide more details, but it did ring the alarm bells in mid-July about what was coming.

“New posters recently appeared in medical rooms outlining the options available to ‘pregnant people’ in prison, including prenatal care, abortion, and adoption,” the group reported:

The poster also declares that women have the right to “contraceptive counseling and your choice of birth control methods by a licensed health care provider within 60-180 days prior to scheduled release date.” However, the only methods available to incarcerated women to prevent pregnancy are condoms, which appeared shortly after the men, and Plan B emergency contraceptives. (Full poster text, as reported to us from inside).

Prior to the passage of SB 132, pregnancies among incarcerated women were vanishingly rare in California women's prisons. Women who entered the justice system already pregnant are typically held in county jail or separate medical facilities until they give birth.

As soon as the law passed, "transgender women" in men's prisons flooded the authorities with more than 300 requests for transfer, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The transfers are necessary, the newspaper reported, because those men are frequently sexually assaulted.

Maybe, but that fact is irrelevant to the now-endangered women inmates. Citing state data from 2009, WoLf reported that 20.5 percent of "transgender" inmates are registered sex offenders. Of "transgender" inmates who commit sexual assault, 43.9 percent are registered sex offenders.

"The men who wish to transfer need only take a laughable "Right Person, Right Prison" class," WoLF reported. It "covers hard-hitting topics like" these:

"You may be asked questions, How will you handle that?," "Trans fears of being housed with cis", and "What's in it for you?". Apparently, CDCR believes this is an adequate way of screening the men requesting transfer to ensure that housing them with women is appropriate.

The women, meanwhile, are being prepared with free condoms and guidance on how to obtain an abortion in prison.

Washington State

California is not alone in setting up women prisoners to be raped or murdered.

As The New American reported in May, Washington has done so as well. The state recently transferred two dangerous men who pretend they are women.

One was convicted of killing three "sex workers," and he went to Thailand for "gender reassignment surgery," prosecutors alleged, to duck suspicion for the killings.

Another inmate was a fellow named Hobby Bingham, who changed his name to Princess Zoe Marie Andromeda Love. He molested a 12-year-old girl.

Washington's prison management isn't exactly a model for the nation. It recently transferred a 12-year-old rape victim's brother into the same cell as the girl's rapist. Robert Munger repeatedly harangued Shane Goldsby, 26, with details about the rape of Goldsby's little sister.

"He kept ... giving me details about what happened and what he did. About the photos and videos of him doing this stuff, and it was building up," KHQO6 reported.

Goldsby beat and stomped Munger to death.
