Leftist Teacher Encourages Children to Pledge Allegiance to "Progress Pride Flag"

On Tuesday, an alleged teacher was caught on camera — "their" own camera — proclaiming that he or she encourages his or her students to "pledge allegiance" to the so-called Progress Pride flag instead of the American flag. The unnamed teacher explained that "they" didn't have an American flag in "their" classroom, but only the multicolored rainbow-type flag.

The so-called teacher's TikTok account, @kaiju_baby, appears to have been deleted, but the Libs of TikTok Twitter account was able to save the video prior to the deletion.

The video shows a heavily tattooed, orange-haired person in a classroom, with a voice-over of the Pledge of Allegiance playing throughout the short video.

In the script, the video explains: "My students on the first day realizing I don't have an American Flag in my room."

Then: "Them realizing I only have a pride flag." Followed by: "Them saying the pledge to the pride flag anyways."

Libs of TikTok, the Twitter account run by Chaia Raychik, a woman who has been vilified by left-wing media and politicians for posting videos of leftist personalities essentially giving their own perspectives on the world, comments only, "Teacher suggests students should pledge allegiance to the progress pride flag."

In April of last year, Raychik was viciously doxxed — her private information disclosed — by Washington Post reporter Taylor Lorenz, who had previously claimed she had been traumatized by, literally, the same behavior.

Raychik has also experienced unhinged venom from politicians, most recently from none other than Representative Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-N.Y.).

Raychik recently "outed" herself on Fox News' Tucker Carlson Tonight.

Teachers being political activists instead of educators has increasingly become a problem in the United States.

Watchdog group Project Veritas and Libs of TikTok have taken the lead in pointing out the fact that, in many cases, public (and many private) schools in America have become indoctrination centers for left-wing politics.

In September of 2021, Project Veritas was responsible for bringing to light the case of Gabriel Gipe, an avowed member of Antifa, who claimed his primary purpose as a teacher was to "turn them [students] into revolutionaries.… Scare the f*ck out of them." Since August of 2022, Project Veritas has provided many more examples of left-wing bias in education.

And Libs of TikTok has done the same thing pretty much daily, almost exclusively using supposed educators' own words.

As far as the Pledge of Allegiance, teachers are not the only ones guilty of bastardizing that once revered recitation. The male spouse of Joe Biden's Secretary of Transportation Pete Buttigieg was caught on video leading youngsters in his own "pledge" to the LGBT flag.

While Project Veritas uses surreptitious methods to out biased left-wing educators, Raychik and Libs of TikTok are simply using educators' own videos to show their insanity. If those educators have a problem with their left-wing — and sometimes outright communist — views being shown for all to see, perhaps they should stop sharing them publicly.
