Alongside Common Core, Feds Will Vacuum Up Data on Kids

Veteran educator Mary Black explains how, contrary to establishment claims, Common Core and the federal government's broader education "reform" agenda will indeed vacuum up huge amounts of information on American children for data-mining and other purposes.

Utah Data Center

- Each state is required to have a database
- 400 points of information can be collected on children
