Hate for Kirk Spreads; Website Curating Social Media for Celebratory Material; War Dept. Warning: Mocking Assassination “Unacceptable”

The crazed leftists who celebrate the assassination of conservative activist Charlie Kirk on social media won't be celebrating for long.

A new website — CharliesMurderers.com — is inviting readers to submit such celebratory material, then posting it so employers can fire the dangerous lunatics.

War Secretary Pete Hegseth, War Department assistant and Pentagon spokesman Sean Parnell, and Navy Secretary John Phelan are warning service members they will be punished for participating in the demonic revelry.

A Secret Service agent is on leave for celebrating Kirk's murder, and one of the most prominent Kirk haters, horror novelist Stephen King, has been forced to apologize for claiming, after Kirk was murdered, that the Turning Point USA founder believed that homosexuals must be stoned to death.

And going viral are the many times that far-left Democrats called Donald Trump a “fascist” or a “threat to democracy,” including former Vice President Kamala Harris' invocation of the “F” word.

The Website, Military Crackdown

CharliesMurderers.com reports that it is not doxing the Kirk haters, but instead collecting publicly available information about them.

“We seek to collect and archive instances of individuals promoting or glorifying of political violence, much like archive.org or archive.is,” the website says:

We firmly denounce all political violence and criminal activity.

This website is being converted into a mass searchable database of over 20,000 entries.

The website features a page with directions and an email address to which submissions are directed.

July — Career Counselor at U.S. Army 1st Recruiting Brigade

One of those celebrating is an Army recruiter who might just land in hot water with the Army. “I am never sad when the chickens come home to roost,” the recruiter wrote.

“It is unacceptable for military personnel and Department of War civilians to celebrate or mock the assassination of a fellow American,” War Department assistant Parnell wrote on X. “The Department of War has zero tolerance for it.”

The Department of War has zero tolerance for it.

I am aware of posts displaying contempt toward a fellow American who was assassinated. I want to be very clear: any uniformed or civilian employee of the Department of the Navy who acts in a manner that brings discredit upon the Department, the @USNavy or the @USMC will be dealt...

— Secretary of the Navy John C. Phelan (@SECNAV) September 12, 2025

Wrote Navy Secretary Phelan:

I want to be very clear: any uniformed or civilian employee of the Department of the Navy who acts in a manner that brings discredit upon the Department, the @USNavy or the @USMC will be dealt with swiftly and decisively.

War Secretary Hegseth wrote that “we are tracking all these very closely — and will address, immediately. Completely unacceptable.”

Then there's the Secret Service.

“If you are Mourning this guy .. delete me,” agent Anthony Pough wrote. “He spewed hate and racism on his show.” Pough might soon be looking for other work. “The U.S. Secret Service will not tolerate behavior that violates our code of conduct,” the agency told Fox News. “This employee was immediately put on administrative leave, and an investigation has begun.”

King: I Was Wrong

Novelist Stephen King, a Trump-hating leftist, has apologized five times for his erroneous post

At 4:08 p.m. the day Kirk was murdered, King wrote that “he advocated stoning gays to death” over a post in which Kirk wrote that marriage is between a man and a woman and that “gays should be welcome in the conservative movement.”

“As Christians,” Kirk wrote, “we are called to love everyone.”

GOP Senator Ted Cruz of Texas called King a “horrible twisted liar,” and former Trump aide Sebastian Gorka called him a “decrepit liar.”

Others chimed in as well.

“This is what I get for reading something on Twitter without fact-checking,” King wrote over Cruz’s post. After several apologies, King wrote this:

I apologize for saying Charlie Kirk advocated stoning gays. What he actually demonstrated was how some people cherry-pick Bible passages.

You decrepit liar.

Show us when Charlie ever sa... Show more

No, he did not.

Your party—which you shamelessly shilled...

And top Democrats still don't understand that they will be caught and exposed for celebrating Kirk's death. Example: The head of the Democratic Party in Union County, North Carolina, Parron Baxter.

"All this 'he had a family' or 'he was only 31' is pure nonsense," Baxter fumed:

Yall doing this dance puts his life over the countless lives of people that he danced in the blood of. Yall are literally doing the work of white supremacy by posting or expressing more sadness when Charlie Effing Kirk (A HATE MONGERER) dies than you do when Black people are killed or Brown people are harassed, or Palestinians are smashed into gooey red paste with our tax dollars.

Baxter called Kirk a "casualty" in the "Holy War" of "White supremacy."

"Lastly, fascist, authoritarians, and wannabe dictators MUST see that the people will dance on their graves whenever they die no matter how it happens," he continued.

"We must mock them, and yes, dance on their graves," he wrote.

The Monroe Falls, Ohio, Council vice president, John Impellizzeri, had this to say:

So to all you right-wingers out there I have two things to say to you: 2nd Amendment, and "Thoughts and Prayers."

The world is a better place now that he's gone.

Trump the Fascist

Also going viral are myriad clips of far-left Democrats using violent language about President Trump.

Indeed, top Democrats such as former President Joe Biden and Representative Maxine Waters (D-Calif.) have normalized it.

On multiple occasions, Biden — who claimed Trump would be a dictator on “Day 1” — said he would “take Trump behind the gym.”

“If we were in high school, I’d take him behind the gym and beat the hell out of him,” he told a crowd in Miami in 2018.

“I will go and take out Trump tonight!” said Waters in 2017, who repeatedly encouraged supporters to harass and intimidate Trump administration personnel.

During her failed presidential campaign, Kamala Harris called Trump “a threat to our democracy and fundamental freedoms.” She also likened him to Adolf Hitler.

It’s simple: Donald Trump is a threat to our democracy and fundamental freedoms.

When CNN’s Anderson Cooper asked Harris during a town hall whether she believed Trump is a fascist, she replied thusly:

Yes, I do.

In April, comparing Republicans to Nazis, Illinois Governor J.B. Pritzker said that “these Republicans cannot know a moment of peace.”
