

Neil Oliver: Averting Satanically Dark Future of Our Children

Profoundly inhumane, anti-freedom globalist policies adapted by the Western political establishments will bring about a “satanically dark” future if we people fail to shake off their culture of dependency and do not start actively pushing back, says popular British presenter Neil Oliver.

In this interview with The New American, Mr. Oliver reflects on his process of “thinking the unthinkable” and coming to terms with the fact that the government, no matter the party in charge, is essentially malevolent. Its decision-making is not driven by the best interests of the people but by the corporate interests of their masters. Further, the nature of the changes that are happening is so disturbing that people feel that they are “wrong and evil.” The time to act is now.
