

War Between James Comer and FBI Director Wray Heats Up

Not satisfied with FBI Director Christopher Wray's response to his demand that the form that confirms Biden's treason be released to his entire committee, James Comer is moving to issue contempt proceedings against him.

The form, FD-1023, is unclassified and contains information from a trusted source that Joe Biden and his family have sold out to America's enemies for a mess of pottage. If it was benign, and didn't prove any such thing, then why all the fuss? Let it be published in The New York Times and be done with it.

The problem, for Wray, is that the information contained in that form confirms other information Comer's House Oversight Committee has proving the sellout of the Bidens, and the very last thing Wray wants is to have that information validated by an unimpeachable source.

To have that information released to the public would jeopardize Joe Biden's attempts to keep his unwarranted chair in the Oval Office, and Wray knows it.

Comer pressed his advantage on Monday after he and his Democratic counterpart on the committee, Maryland's Jamie Raskin (with a treasonous score of just 15 out of 100 on this publication's constitutional voting index), had a chance to look at the contested form.

After seeing it, Comer issued this statement:

FBI officials confirmed that the unclassified, FBI-generated record [FD-1023] has not been disproven and is currently being used in an ongoing investigation....

The confidential human source who provided the information about then-Vice President Biden being involved in a criminal bribery scheme is a trusted, highly credible informant who has been used by the FBI for over 10 years....

What the now infamous form FD-1023 reveals is a "complex money laundering scheme involving millions of dollars, many from foreign countries, given to President Joe Biden and nearly a dozen members of his family," reported NTD News last month.

Again, if the information were benign, then why all the coverup? Instead, the FBI under Wray's direction tried to say there's nothing there, just move along. In one of the most carefully crafted bits of horse rubbish this writer has ever seen, the FBI claimed its innocence of all wrongdoing:

The FBI has continually demonstrated its commitment to accommodate the committee's request, including by producing the document in a reading room at the U.S. Capitol.

This commonsense safeguard is often employed in response to congressional requests and in court proceedings to protect important concerns, such as the physical safety of sources and the integrity of investigations.

The escalation to a contempt vote under these circumstances is unwarranted.

Said Comer: "The FBI again refused to hand over the unclassified record to the custody" of his committee and "we will now initiate contempt of Congress hearings this Thursday."

The outcome is not in doubt. Comer is right. Wray is guilty, as are the Bidens — but Attorney General Merrick Garland is part of the Deep State. Even if Comer's oversight committee were to issue a contempt charge against Wray on Thursday, and the House were to recommend criminal charges, they will disappear under Garland's command.

Not until Americanists expand their tiny minority in the Congress will there be any chance of routing the conspirators bent on the destruction of the American Republic.
