The UFO-Alien Traps

There's been a significant uptick in mainstream UFO coverage over the last couple of years. Though the mainstream media have traditionally shunned the topic, speculative articles about UFOs — and, by implication, aliens — are now routinely being published by such outlets. There's even a polished documentary on the topic featuring federal lawmakers and a former CIA director debuting this month. What gives?

A common theory is that our benevolent masters are finally ready to admit the truth. We're being prepped for the revelation that aliens are and have been among us. The mainstream coverage is a way of gently preparing us for "disclosure"; they're methodically throwing out crumbs of information that we can digest without choking.

Several UFO-related news items have been circulating within the last few weeks.

3I/ATLAS

The internet has been buzzing with alternative theories about 3I/ATLAS, the third interstellar comet known to pass through our solar system. Avi Loeb is the leading mainstream figure promoting the narrative that 3I/ATLAS may very well be an alien craft. Loeb is a Harvard scientist who's either too brave to worry about being stigmatized, or is part of a psyop. He has said that the comet's "non-gravitational acceleration" is evidence of an "internal engine," and therefore being driven by intelligent design. He said that might explain "ATLAS' bizarre change in pigment while nearing our solar system's light source," the New York Post reported.

Loeb's theory has been rampant on social media. And his idea got the attention of popular podcaster Joe Rogan, who recently had him on his show. Moreover, the Post appears to have taken an especially zealous interest in what he has to say. It has published several articles on Loeb and his theory.

Interestingly, though, Loeb appears to be a solo act who has convinced Rogan of at least one easily verifiable falsehood. Every mainstream article I've run across in this vein features Loeb, and him only. Also, rocket expert Elon Musk appeared as a guest on Rogan's show after Loeb. Rogan said one of the reasons Loeb believes 3I/ATLAS is driven by intelligent beings is because it's made of nickel, which indicates industrial design. But Musk immediately dispelled that. "No, there are—there are definitely comets and asteroids that are made primarily of nickel," he said. Really? Rogan asked, surprised. Musk confirmed. The world wide web makes this an easy fact to confirm as well.

Enigma

Then there's a recent story about the findings of the UFO-reporting app Enigma. "Strange lights, unexplained objects, and mysterious movements beneath the waves have been appearing off U.S. coastlines in numbers that are leaving both scientists and UFO enthusiasts stunned," reads the first line of a recent Newsweek article. It continues: "A recent report by UFO-tracking app Enigma reveals that thousands of sightings of Unidentified Submersible Objects (USOs) have been logged near rivers, lakes, and oceans, suggesting that unexplained phenomena are not confined to the skies."

Fox affiliates have picked this up as well. "Thousands of UFOs spotted off US coastlines raise new national security fears: expert," blares the headline to a Tampa Bay affiliate's story. "Enigma, a non-partisan organization that boasts its 'largest queryable historical sighting database for global UFO sightings,' has recorded roughly 30,000 UFO sightings since its launch in 2022," the article tells us.

Congressional Comments

Another big shift in UFO coverage is that American lawmakers are now openly talking about this mysterious phenomena. Anna Paulina Luna, a Republican representative from Florida, has been one of multiple legislators openly determined to find out what's going on. She's the chairwoman of the Task Force on the Declassification of Federal Secrets. And she believes there are non-human intelligent beings out there. "Based on the photos that I've seen, I'm very confident that there's things out there that have not been created by mankind," she has said. Last week, she sent NASA's acting administrator Sean Duffy a letter asking for more information on 3I/ATLAS, overtly implying that she believes it's not a comet. "This information is of great importance to advancing our understanding of interstellar visitors and interactions with our solar system," she wrote.

Luna is also featured in the much ballyhooed, soon-to-be-released documentary The Age of Disclosure. As is Rep. Tim Burchett (R-Tenn.), another outspoken supporter of the idea that the government is not telling people the truth about UFOs. While these two legislators don't emit the swampy stench that emanates from most members of Congress, the other talking heads in the documentary just happen to be "former" national security officials, including former CIA director, suspected traitor, and Deep Stater John Brennan.

Government Secrets

There is no shortage of theories as to what aliens and UFOS may be. We're not saying that something strange and anomalous is not happening. But getting into what exactly is going on is not the point of this article. We're not going to speculate if our visitors are space aliens, future humans, or demons from another dimension, or if the whole thing is one big psyop. That's a rabbit hole that goes deeper than we care to dive.

But it's worth mentioning that defense contractors and the government have for a long time had secret advanced technology that has baffled the public. For example, many UFO sightings in the 1950s and '60s, we now know, were of American spy plans like the U-2 and SR-71 Blackbird. Also, multiple whistleblowers have come forward over the years claiming they worked near or on advanced secret technology. And even President Donald Trump admitted that the military has technology the public has no idea exists. "This country is very powerful. It's far more powerful than people understand," he told reporters during a recent Oval Office press conference. "We have weaponry that nobody has any idea what it is, and it is the most powerful weapons in the world that we have. More powerful than anybody,

We're going to learn about technologies that I believe will blow the minds of even the most seasoned "conspiracy theorists".

Trump: "We have weaponry that nobody has any idea what it is and it is the most powerful weapons in the world."

This isn't just typical Trumpian veiled flexing. Secret technology exists, and Trump, given his undisciplined nature, likely has a very difficult time not running his mouth about it.

World Government Justification?

Something is obviously afoot. But given the cast of characters who seem to have taken an interest in the UFO narrative and the shift in mainstream treatment of UFO stories, there is legitimate reason to be wary — not necessarily of aliens, but of an attempt by the powerful to use this narrative as an excuse to push through agendas they've had for a long time.

A common element in the UFO narrative is that these crafts and beings have capabilities far beyond those of humans. The famous “Tic Tac” video, first brought to you by The New York Times, shows anomalous crafts flying in ways and at speeds that no known human-devised technology can. There are also stories of missiles bouncing off UFOs, defense systems being frozen, and nuclear weapons systems being completely neutralized by UFOs.

The inference is that humans are greatly outmatched by this technology and its creators. The obvious takeaway is that these UFOs may very well pose a threat. And not just to Americans — but to the entire world.

An “alien” revelation may be exploited as a threat that requires global cooperation to counter — and therefore global government. Every international threat in recent history, whether fake or real, has been exploited with a pitch for “global cooperation.” After each 20th-century world war, the elites pushed world government under the auspices of avoiding another world war. First, they created the League of Nations. After that failed in its purported mission, they stood up the more successful United Nations.

The elites also used the fabricated climate-change scare and the Covid-19 virus as excuses to advocate global governance. The pitch is always the same: We need global government to address global threats. There’s no reason the people in charge wouldn’t use the UFO-alien threat the same way.

Attacking Our Christian Heritage

Another threat to watch for is an attempt to usurp Western Civilization’s foundational origin story, which has been an ongoing project of the elites for more than a century. A popular theory among UFOlogists and the like is that aliens “engineered” humans, that they — and not the God of the Bible — seeded us. This is broadcast in the 2012 Ridley Scott movie Prometheus. It’s also suggested in Erich von Däniken’s popular book Chariots of the Gods. It comes up repeatedly in episodes of the long-running Ancient Aliens series. And it’s the conclusion to Jim Marrs’ “underground bestseller” Rule by Secrecy. Marrs adheres to Zecharia Sitchin’s “ancient astronauts” theory, which weaves an incredibly creative tapestry of Sumerian myths and biblical passages in an attempt to pass off the idea that “spacefaring humanoid extraterrestrials” called Anunnaki created humans a long, long time ago.

Humans have an innate need to worship. All totalitarians know this — it’s the reason they’ve always attacked religion. The communists committed unspeakably evil acts of genocide and torture against Christians. The Nazis arrested hundreds of pastors, closed monasteries, and executed several pastors who refused to bow to their warped Aryan version of Christianity. And for more than a century, the multi-generational international cabal has been on a mission to destroy Western Civilization’s Christian heritage.

The “alien reveal,” whatever the truth is, will almost certainly be exploited by the powerful to try and persuade people to stop believing in God.

Serving Globalists’ Agenda

The pattern of the international cabal has been consistently malevolent for a long time, and we have no reason to believe that the institutions and people that have been lying to us for all of recent history are suddenly going to tell the truth about something as big as aliens or super-advanced technology. It’s very likely that, whatever the truth is, the public will get a version that serves the agenda of the world’s aspiring rulers.
