The United Nations 2030 Agenda “Sustainable Development Goals” and the broader “sustainability” agenda to undermine freedom have been injected into every federal agency amid a mass indoctrination program of the federal workforce under the previous administration, warned The New American magazine’s Alex Newman on this episode of Behind The Deep State with special guest Truth in Education chief founder Rhonda Thomas.

The UN’s agenda, known as the “master plan for humanity,” was pushed across the federal government by a longtime USAID operator and Council on Foreign Relations member Kristen Cordell. Her background is concerning enough. But she was given a powerful mandate by the Biden administration to fundamentally transform the millions of federal workers and write policy.

Now, the UN is promoting the “Inner Development Goals” (IDGs) to transform the hearts and minds of children around the world through education and manipulation techniques such as “Social-Emotional Learning (SEL). These schemes are now being incorporated into international standardized testing to make sure all children learn it. All that and more in this episode.
