Steve Kirsch: Bombshell Israeli Data on Pfizer Shot Adverse Effects

Israel's Ministry of Health (MOH) took a year and a half from the Pfizer Covid vaccines' rollout before looking at adverse effects. The MOH tasked a panel of outside experts to analyze data collected between December 2021 and May 2022.

As appeared from the leaked Zoom meeting between the panel and MOH, the findings of the panel clearly showed that the Pfizer shot was extremely unsafe and caused injuries that were neither mild nor short-term. Most importantly, the panel was able to prove a link between the shots and the most commonly reported side effects, such as neurological problems and menstrual irregularities. The MOH published an official report that reflected none of that. Neither the mainstream media nor public health authorities are interested in this explosive information, said Steve Kirsch, who was among the first to publicize the story in America.
