On Thursday, the public learned more about how corrupt the FBI has become. The House Judiciary Committee's Select Subcommittee on the Weaponization of Government held riveting hearings featuring three whistleblowers who pushed back against the politicization and weaponization of the agency.

Plus, Kari Lake's lawsuit contesting the 2022 election results began yesterday and continues through tomorrow, and one of Warren Buffett's shareholders landed in jail for calling out the business tycoon's leftist politics earlier this month at the Berkshire Hathaway annual meeting in Omaha, Nebraska.

In the second half of the show, Alex Newman documents some of our leaders' dependence on the CFR, and introduces us to a longtime insider who pledges to extend the CFR's reach even further and continue the group's influence over state and local policy.
