In this exclusive interview with The New American’s Gary Benoit, director Matthew Guthrie dives into his powerful new documentary, Follow the Silenced. It tells the gripping stories of those who faced vaccine injuries after participating in Covid-19 clinical trials. Guthrie lost his sister to medical malpractice years ago, so when he heard that people were suffering similar fates, he decided to help tell their stories. The documentary is a must-watch conversation shedding light on the unheard voices among us. Guthrie is also planning another documentary based on the story of Grace Schara, who lost her life in a Covid hospital in 2021. He talks about those plans as well. #FollowTheSilenced
