Xavier Azalbert: Suing Bill Gates for Disparagement

Asking for an open, scientific debate over experimental medical interventions is not a “conspiracy theory.” Questioning the efficacy of Covid vaccines that, in fact, are ineffective against the infection is not “jeopardizing the lives of others.” It is unacceptable in a free society to ruin people’s careers and reputations because they ask for medical transparency and legal accountability. This is why Xavier Azalbert, the founder of the French civilian alliance BonSens and the publisher of the online newspaper FranceSoir, is taking Bill Gates to court.

The New American is the first news outlet to report on the case.
