

Written by Denise Behreandt on May 11, 2008

Ongoing Conflict in Tibet

In response to questions about rioting and the government crackdown, Yang shifted blame to the Dalai Lama, claiming the exiled Tibetan spiritual leader has failed to engage in dialogue.

On the same day, Tibet's prime minister-in-exile Samdhong Rinpoche predicted from his enclave of Dharamshala in India that China will extend its suppression of freedom in Tibet and issued an appeal for the international community to intervene. "Tibet is virtually sealed," said Rinpoche. "In a short period the Chinese authorities will destroy all evidence by executing the innocent Tibetans."

Riots against government policies in Chinese-occupied Tibet began in March, and exiled Tibetan leaders say more than 150 Tibetans have died in the subsequent Chinese crackdown. However both Rinpoche and the Dalai Lama have asserted that the violent protesters were actually Chinese agents provocateurs masquerading as Tibetans. "In particular, there are cases where people have seen Chinese policemen in Tibetan dress and in monks' robes taking the leading role during the protests," said Rinpoche.

Subscribe to the New American

Get exclusive digital access to the most informative, non-partisan truthful news source for patriotic Americans!

Discover a refreshing blend of time-honored values, principles and insightful perspectives within the pages of "The New American" magazine. Delve into a world where tradition is the foundation, and exploration knows no bounds.

From politics and finance to foreign affairs, environment, culture, and technology, we bring you an unparalleled array of topics that matter most.

Subscribe

What's Included?

- 24 Issues Per Year
- Optional Print Edition
- Digital Edition Access
- Exclusive Subscriber Content
- Audio provided for all articles
- Unlimited access to past issues
- Coming Soon! Ad FREE
- 60-Day money back guarantee!
- Cancel anytime.