In this explosive interview, The New American's Alex Newman and Andrew Muller share what they witnessed on the ground in Belém, Brazil, when a fire broke out at the main UN facility where the COP30 climate summit was being held. Muller recounts his disturbing interview with a sculptor of an unflattering statue of an overweight, naked Donald Trump perched on the back of a skeletal child.

Muller and Newman also share footage of a disturbing, openly satanic statue — gifted by the Chinese Communist Party to Brazil — depicting the Devil clutching a globe inscribed with “COP30.” Newman and Muller break down the reaction of the overwhelmingly Catholic Brazilian public, many of whom were outraged and offended by the overtly Luciferian imagery promoted at a UN event hosted in their own country.

Alex Newman further reveals how Brazil is being steadily communized under the growing influence of the CCP, sharing emotional stories from local Brazilians who spoke in tears about their lack of free speech, political repression, and fear of criticizing the Marxist regime of President Lula da Silva — whom many residents of Belém told them they believe stole the election from former President Jair Bolsonaro, who currently remains under house arrest. Together, Newman and Muller expose the totalitarian ambitions being peddled by the COP30 planners, using “climate policy” and “sustainable development” as a cover for reshaping the world order along collectivist lines.
